Thanks for the clarifications. Makes perfect sense and also helps explain why the process will take several weeks to complete.

Thanks, Laura. Just to clarify one perhaps irrelevant point, I won't necessarily be the only one reviewing the search results. We are working with Becky Dolph and the FOIA Expert Assistance Team in OGC on this, and they or others in OGC may be doing part of the review. In any case we'll be consulting closely with them. And, as Alan notes below, we expect to be coordinating with the Administrator's office so that they have a chance to review any results from that office. We may be checking in with various other offices as well, depending on the results of the search.

Nancy:

I spoke with Mike Boydston this morning and he said it will probably be another week or two before the emails are compiled. Once compiled, he'll need to go through each email to determine what, if anything, needs to be redacted from each message. Depending on the volume of emails involved, this process could take another few weeks to complete.

Once the redacted versions are ready, he'll route to you so you know what's being transmitted.

Mike said there's a chance this could happen a little bit sooner but he won't know for sure until he speaks with Alan Engels, R8 FOIA Officer, who's out until tomorrow.

Stay tuned as this progresses.....
